Reception

Critical response

A reviewer of The Free Press Journal wrote "However, the internal conflict, competitive and jealousy in the minds of people can be watched at least once to encourage the makers".^[5] Ritu Tripathi from India TV wrote "it definitely feels like it has been drawn forcibly. But if you like realistic acting and down-to-earth characters then you will surely enjoy it".^[6] Rahul Chouhan from Aaj Tak wrote "If you want to watch a serious 'low' comedy film showing social evils, then you will like 'Dwand The Internal Conflict'".^[7] Shikha Yadav from NDTV says "Like the story of the film, its direction has also been done well. But at some places the story starts getting a bit slow and boring and looking at some scenes it seems as if an attempt has been made to add them
